- Sell assets
- Switch assets (with the same investment provider)
- Set up or amend regular asset trading activity.

Please note this form is not used for trading funds on the Nucleus platform or for exchange traded investments via our integrated stockbroker.

For further information on the assets allowed in your product, please speak to your adviser, if you have one and refer to the product's Permitted Investments List, which is available on our website literature.nucleusfinancial.com or on request.

Please read the following information and ensure all sections of this form are completed. If you don't fully complete each section, your trade may be delayed.

Supporting documents

Alongside this form, please send us the appropriate investment application form which can be obtained from the investment provider. On that document, you should complete the details of the chosen assets, the amount to be invested, and any adviser charges information. As the investment will be made in our name, we will complete the rest of the investment application form and forward it with this instruction.

Some providers may also require their own documents to be completed for top-ups, sales and switches. Please check with the provider prior to sending us your instruction.

For all assets involved in this instruction, you should read the current version of the:

- Key Investor Information Document (KIID) or Key Information Document (KID) for UCITS funds (Undertakings for Collective Investment Transferable Securities), or
- Simplified Prospectus for other funds, where available.

These documents are available from the investment provider directly.

Transmission

A copy of our Order Execution Policy is available on our website. This sets out our policy on receiving and transmitting trading instructions.

Target market

Before deciding to invest, you and your adviser should consider the investment provider's target market for your chosen asset and whether your requirements align with it. This information can be obtained from the provider.

We won't assess whether you meet the investment provider's target market and therefore whether the asset is appropriate for your needs.

Complex products

Some of the assets you are trading could be 'complex products'. Under regulations, there is no single definition of complex products, though these can typically be investments involving:

- any potential customer liability that exceeds the cost of the investment
- the right for the investment provider to materially change the nature or risk of the investment or payout value
- derivatives or a structure which makes it difficult for the customer to understand
- disproportionate exit charges that could have the effect of making the investment illiquid, or where the opportunity to sell is infrequent.

You can only invest in complex products if you have received regulated financial advice in respect of the proposed asset and the asset type is included in our Permitted Investments List. If you are unsure if your chosen asset is a complex product, please speak directly to the investment provider.

Data protection

You can access full details on how we process your personal data in our Privacy Notice, which is available on our website nucleusfinancial.com.

If you have any questions about data protection, please contact us using the details in that document.
