Death claim Declaration

Completing the form

This form should be used to request settlement of a client's account(s) after death.

Where a client held a pension account, the payment of pension death benefits is made at the discretion of the pension Scheme Administrator who will choose the beneficiaries entitled to pension death benefits.

The pension Scheme Administrator will consider any expression of wishes held on file, along with any relevant information provided on this form, when identifying beneficiaries and allocating funds. This may include the client's will, any additional expression of wishes or letter of intention, and details of dependants, a spouse or civil partner, children, or anyone else the client may have wished to provide for. As payment of pension death benefits is discretionary, pension monies may not necessarily be paid to an Executor.

This form should be signed by the chosen beneficiary for pension account(s) and the executor for all other account(s). Where there is more than one chosen beneficiary for a pensions account, each beneficiary should complete a separate form.

Please read important notes section before completing. If you've any questions, please don't hesitate to contact our client relations team.
